Dear Parents and Caregivers,

12 September 2018

Tonight is our last session of Reading

Together Congratulations to the parents that took part and learned about they can help their children read at home with enjoyment and understanding. It has been wonderful to see the commitment of these parents coming to each of the sessions to deepen their understanding of what reading together is all about. It has been a pleasure for me to work with you to support your children's learning.

Author visit Next week Alan Bagnall is visiting to share his experiences as an author with the many authors we have at St Bernadette's. Alan has written for school journals and reading books and so students will be able to talk to a published writer whose work they have read.

Duffy Role Model Assembly We also have a Black Fern, Lyric Faleafaga, visiting next Wednesday. I am sure our students will have many questions for her that might lead them to follow their own dreams into their future.
